USW Bargaining Guide for Advancing Indigenous Rights

Collective bargaining can be a powerful tool for change, and is the main way the USW represents our members.

We represent workers of First Nations, Inuit, and Métis ancestry in many workplaces across Canada. The Steelworkers' commitment to represent and support Indigenous members and their communities is part of our commitment to a democratic, inclusive, and diverse union that builds power and creates a bright future for us all.

The USW urges all USW local unions and bargaining committees to take special care to communicate with Indigenous members to clarify if they have demands or suggestions for collective agreement provisions reflecting Indigenous rights or practices that might be addressed in the bargaining process. Based on that feedback the USW urges bargaining committees to develop and propose specific provisions supporting Indigenous employment, accommodation, and inclusion.

Many USW locals and bargaining units have already negotiated these kinds of provisions. This guide contains examples of contract language from USW and other collective agreements which aim to advance the rights of Indigenous workers and their communities.

How to use this guide:

1. This guide contains sample language organized by subject. In some cases, more than one example addressing the same issue is included. This is so you have some choices, or can “mix and match” to create language best suited to your workplace.
2. Staff and bargaining committees are encouraged to propose language that advances the rights of Indigenous workers and communities. Best of all is to meet with, and consider the wishes of, Indigenous members of the bargaining unit when deciding which proposals are priorities.

3. The process of bargaining is important, and local unions are encouraged to make sure that bargaining committees reflect the diversity of the bargaining unit's membership. We need to find ways to ensure Indigenous members are engaged.
4. Source documents are available on request so that you can review a provision in the context of the entire collective agreement.

“The USW prefers to use the term “Indigenous” to refer collectively to the first peoples of this land, because that is the term used by first peoples themselves when it isn't possible to use the name of a specific nation (e.g., Cree, Innu, Métis, Inuit, etc.). Many of the examples quoted in this guide still use the term “Aboriginal” or “Native”. Wherever possible, we have added “[Indigenous]” in square brackets to indicate our preferred language. If you propose one of these examples in your next round of collective bargaining, we encourage you to propose the updated wording.”

This guide is a work in progress. Please send us provisions you have already bargained that we have overlooked. And when you succeed in bargaining new provisions, let us know that, too. Send your language (and requests for source documents) to:

This shall not be interpreted to be an obligation on any individual to seek the assistance of a member of the Aboriginal [Indigenous] community.

6.17 First Nations/Native [Indigenous] Employees Employment

Equity Plan

- A. In this Collective Agreement, "First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employee(s)" are considered to be persons who are Indians, Inuit or Métis and who at the time of hire identify themselves as such to the Company and to the Union or agree to be identified by the Company and the Union as Indians, Inuit or Métis.
- B. The onus shall be on the person to show that he or she is a "First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employee" and thereby entitled to the rights and benefits set forth herein.
- (1) Despite the provisions of Article 16 or any other provisions of this Collective Agreement, in all cases involving the filling of vacancies, promotions, selections for training, transfers, layoffs, and recalls from layoff, the Company and the Unions agree that the Company shall be entitled to give preference to First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees regardless of their seniority.
 - (2) Despite the provisions of this Article or any other provisions of this Collective Agreement, the Company shall be entitled to develop and implement special work schedules applicable to First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees to allow them to engage in traditional activities, including traditional economic and spiritual activities, while maintaining employment with the Company.
 - (3) Where the rights of First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees pursuant to this Article conflict with rights of non-Native [non-Indigenous] or non-First Nations employees under any provisions of this Collective Agreement, the rights of First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees shall prevail.
 - (4) In all cases of vacancy, promotion, transfer, layoff and recall from layoff, First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees shall be entitled to preference provided they have the ability to perform the work despite their seniority.

- (5) The Company and the Union also acknowledge the interest of the Nacho Nyakdun Band in the disposition of any grievances affecting a First Nations or native [Indigenous] employee. To this end, the Company and the Union agree to notify the Chief of the Nacho Nyakdun Band of any such grievance and the Company and the Union shall both consider the recommendations and advice of the said Chief in the processing of any such grievance, investigating the relevant facts respecting any such grievance and determining the merits of any such grievance.
- (6) Upon the request of any First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employee who has completed the probationary period under this Collective Agreement, the Company shall grant to him leaves of absence which total not more than three (3) months in a calendar year, for the purpose of engaging in traditional activities, including traditional spiritual activities and traditional economic activities such as hunting, fishing and trapping. It is acknowledged by the Company and by the Union that any one leave may need to be restricted to a period of less than three (3) months having regards to the total number of employees on such leave at any one time.
- (7) A First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employee shall continue to accumulate seniority during any leave granted in accordance with Article 6.17(6).
- (8) In order to facilitate access to upgrading programs by First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees, in the first half of 1997 the Company and the Union agree to establish a joint review process which will include the participation of First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees, if possible, to implement a program during the first half of 1998 which would provide physical facilities and equipment at the mine site for use in viewing high school and other upgrading television/video programs for First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees

- (9) The Company and the Union agree to establish a joint First Nations/Native [Indigenous] Employee Employment Equity Committee comprised of two (2) representatives of the Union, one of whom shall be a First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employee, if possible, and two (2) representatives of the Company, one of whom shall be a First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employee, if possible. The Committee shall meet not less than once each calendar month to support, monitor, maintain, and work through difficulties whenever possible, pertaining to this First Nations/Native [Indigenous] Employees Employment Equity Plan. No employee shall suffer any loss of income in connection with his participation on the Committee.
- (10) The Company and the Union agree that the rights and benefits accorded to First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees under this Collective Agreement constitute reasonable and necessary special programs expressly designed to benefit First Nations or Native [Indigenous] employees in recognition of the historical discrimination, both direct and systemic, experienced by First Nations people or Native [Indigenous] people and that the rights and benefits under this First Nations/Native [Indigenous] Employees Employment Equity Plan have, as their objective, the providing of special opportunities to members of First Nations or Native [Indigenous] people who are employees of the Company in the bargaining unit under this Collective Agreement.

These provisions do not apply to job progressions. 12.05 The Company shall award the position to the candidate meeting the Standards for the position in the Order of Preference. Where the preference status of candidates is equal, the senior employee shall be awarded the position. 12.06 The standards established by the Employer for the position shall include qualifications, work experience, skill, ability, and training.

12.07 The Order of Preference to be followed in awarding positions to candidates meeting the standards for the position is as follows:

- (1) Innu and Inuit candidates who are members of the Labrador Catering Limited Partnership bargaining unit;
- (2) Innu and Inuit external candidates who are employed at the Voisey's Bay site (new hire);
- (3) Innu and Inuit candidates who are external applicants (new hire);
- (4) Labradorian candidates who are members of the Labrador Catering Limited Partnership bargaining unit;
- (5) Labradorian external candidates who are employed at the Voisey's Bay site (new hire);
- (6) Labradorian candidates who are external applicants (new hire);
- (7) Other candidates who are members of the Labrador Catering Limited Partnership bargaining unit;
- (8) Other external candidates who are employed at the Voisey's Bay site (new hire);
- (9) Other candidates who are external applicants (new hire).

For greater certainty, persons who occupy preference status (2,) (3), (5), (6), (8) and (9) and who are identified above as "new hires" shall enter this bargaining unit as new employees and shall not be entitled to seniority credit for time they may have spent in other Steelworker bargaining units.

12.08 Competency training to expand an employee's work scope within a job progression will be offered at each progression level in Order of Preference within the bargaining unit, subject to the employee being able to perform the work required.

12.09 Employees appointed to a new position shall be subject to a trial period in the new position of two full working rotations at site. In the event that the employee proves unsatisfactory in the position during the trial period, or if the employee is unable to perform the duties of the new position, he/she shall return to his/her former position, wage or salary rate and without loss of seniority. Any other employee promoted or transferred because of the rearrangement of positions shall also be returned to his/her former position, wage or salary rate and without loss of seniority. The parties may mutually agree, in writing, to extend the trial period. Where an employee fails to successfully complete a trial period, or voluntarily reverts to his/her former position prior to completion of the trial period, the employee will not be permitted to be considered for the same position for a period of at least twelve (12) months.

Layoff and Recall

12.10 Layoffs shall be done by classification beginning with the most junior employee in the classification. Such layoffs shall be done in reverse Order of Preference within the Bargaining Unit. Where the preference status of the affected employees is equal, it shall be done in reverse order of seniority.

12.11 All layoffs are subject to the requirement that the remaining employees have the qualifications, work experience, skill, ability, and training to perform the work.

12.12 The employee to be laid off may elect to bump the most junior employee in the lowest paid Tech level, subject to the following:

- (1) the employee has the qualifications, work experience, skill, ability, and training to perform the work, or to acquire same within seven (7) work days of on-the-job familiarization and training;
- (2) the employee is more senior; and
- (3) it does not violate the Order of Preference within the bargaining unit.

The displaced employee will be laid off.

12.13 Recall shall be done according to the Order of Preference within the bargaining unit and where preference status of the employees to be recalled is equal; it shall be done in order of seniority. The recall of any employee is subject to the employee having the qualifications, work experience, skill, ability, and training to perform the work.

12.14 The Company may recall employees through notification by phone. Inability to make contact by phone requires the Company to provide notice by registered mail to their last known address. It is the responsibility of the employee to keep the Company informed of his/her

	current address and telephone number. When recalled by mail the employee must contact the human resources administrator of the Company to make arrangements as to when the next available rotation will be should his/her position have been temporarily filled by another employee while awaiting contact with the human resources administrator of the Company. 12.15 An employee who refuses a recall to work full time in his/her original position shall be deemed to have resigned voluntarily, shall lose his/her seniority and his/her name shall be removed from the seniority list.

Dilico
Anishinabek
Family Care and Unifor, Local 7-
O-1

Preamble

Dilico Anishinabek Family Care ("Dilico") was created after the recognition that there were a disproportionate number of First Nation children in the care of provincial Children's Aid Societies.

Dilico functioned in the capacity as band authority from 1986 to April 1, 1995 when it was mandated by Provincial Order in Council as a Children's Aid Society pursuant to section 15 of the Child and Family Services Act and mandate to the First Nation population both on and off reserve in the District of Thunder Bay. Since April 1, 1995, Dilico has exercised jurisdiction delivering child protection and a portion of the District of Algoma.

In 1996, Dilico expanded its delivery by amalgamating two additional services: children's mental health and adult residential addictions.

In January 1997, Dilico commenced delivery of community and mandatory health services for the on-reserve population of ten communities in the Robinson Superior region and in 1999, Dilico began service delivery pursuant to the provisions of the Long Term Care Act.

Dilico has developed an integrated continuum of services designed to complement the strengths, values and traditions of the individuals, families and communities that we serve. In summary, our range of services include,

- Child protection services;
- Child and family intervention (mental health) services;
- Adult addiction and residential services;
- Community and mandatory health services;
- Long term care services;
- Administrative services

Purpose

1.01 d) The parties recognize that Dilico Anishinabek Family Care is a unique organization which provides services to the Aboriginal [Indigenous] community. Through its various programs, employees provide holistic professional assistance to families who need to access services. Therefore, labour management flexibility will be a key principle when dealing with work related matters and the parties agree that the long term success of the Agency will depend on mutual cooperation and respect.

Management Rights

- 3.02 The Union recognizes that the Employer is a non-profit, community-based, First Nation controlled agency, publicly funded for the delivery of child and family services.
- 3.03 The Union recognizes the right and obligation of the Employer to operate in accordance with its service mandate, commitments and obligations including those to its member First Nations and those imposed by the Child and Family Services Act, the Long Term Care Act and all other applicable Acts, directives, guidelines and protocols of the Government of Canada and Province of Ontario.
